Want to find and participate in business matches online, interact better with global clients and prospects, develop special relationships with thousands of businesses, achieve mutually profitable business deals, get more sales leads to improve your revenue results, and do it for free?

The Internet can be a gold mine for doing business and finding qualified leads (or even jobs), but all those leads do you no good if you can't find new customers. How do you do that?

By using the right terms when you do a search. In most industries, there are precise technical terms that make all the difference when you're looking to match with your business peers all over the world.

B2BMatchfinder is a new tool, open for business, which conveys the right people around the right table, doing business in every economic activity. It can help you to gain access to relevant business information and knowledge, and to eliminate time and expenses from your searches with its impressive new click-to-find and matchmaking technology.

The best part about B2BMatchfinder is that it's free. That's right: there are no fees for signing up and using it. All you do is register with your company information, and you can start using B2BMatchfinder immediately. Also, it provides daily updates to help you make new contacts.

We invite you to register and take advantage of this free, unprecedented opportunity to secure sales in the global markets.

Here are some features:

- In order to automatically provide you with perfect business matches, every search query is saved in our database. That means you can do a search for "electronic components in general", for example, and B2BMatchfinder shows you which users have done the same search. You'll get all the contact information for that user, so you can contact them and pursue a business relationship. It's the perfect way to get sales leads!
- B2BMatchfinder's valuable matchmaking capabilities help jobseekers to contact interesting companies and peers in the same areas of economic activity – or searching for the same products and services – to network with, so they can be hired as employees or even start their own businesses. They can access a list of these business matches at their user's profile and receive them by e-mail.
- From your smartphone, computer or digital TV, you can secure business opportunities and develop a strategic plan based on customer needs, competitive landscape and global trends for market and technology.
- Business searchers in any country can start searching for matchmaking in their own native languages, with B2BMatchfinder's multi-languages interface (now English, Portuguese, Spanish, Italian, Japanese and Chinese – traditional and simplified).
- With B2BMatchfinder, you don't even have to type your search terms: you can just click on a keyword or phrase to start your search for new opportunities for you and your business, and add more as you go along.
- Using patented user-friendly search technology, B2BMatchfinder has a database of more than 750,000 technical and industry search terms in English that describe products, processes, and services.
